ORDERING NUMBERS

Boston Scientific Corporation uses a fully computerized order entry system for the convenience of our customers. The system enables Customer Service Representatives to provide you with instant order entry as well as up-to-date order status information.

The system uses UPN order numbers or GTIN numbers for each product. The bold blue numbers are the old order numbers (see example). Please use either of these numbers when placing an order.

Boston Scientific Customer Service Representatives will be happy to help you with any questions. We are eager to make the ordering procedure as simple and efficient as possible.

The all-in-one Symphion System is designed to transform the way you remove the uterine tissue. It unites breakthrough fluid management, pressure monitoring and bladeless technologies.

The latest addition to the growing gynecology portfolio, Resectr™ delivers control without added complexity or costs. This single-use polypectomy device enables flexibility in both surgical setting and surgical instrumentation preferences.

The Boston Scientific Genesys HTA™ System therapy is an outpatient procedure that uses heated saline to treat the uterine lining, or endometrium. Once treated, most women no longer experience the symptoms or effects of a heavy period. Many women stop having their period altogether.
